Personal and Aside For June Brides....

It won't be long now!... June's just a flip of the calendar away and what would be a June without brides?... Just another month, of course!... And The Herald could not publish its third annual "spread" of pictures of June brides and their bridegrooms...

So... here's the first notice that this newspaper wants to meet those prospective wedding principals and take their pictures for publication Thursday, May 23.

If you're going to be a bride, if you're going to become a mother-in-law, if you're going to give away a daughter or if you're going to win a wife—you will do The Herald a big favor by letting us know who is going to middle-aise it next month to the strains of Mendelssohn. We want to photograph every June bride but we must know who they are early in order to put our lensman on the job. Will you call 444 and tell us the good news... right now?
